What people said about you

We asked respondents to summarize and provide examples of your top strengths and areas to improve.

If there's anything you aren't clear on, you can also review the detailed results in the appendix, and consider including a task in your personal development plan to get more feedback.

What are this person's 3 biggest strengths, and how should they build on these?

Your view	Communicating, managing others and driving process improvements
Direct manager	You've got a great attitude — always looking to develop yourself and others, and generally helping to motivate those around you. Keep it up!
Peers	Both me and my team have felt the benefit of your coaching. More from you would be great for us! You're always quick with an answer that would take me much longer to come up with... it makes you properly inspiring to work with!
Direct reports	Generally good, I know you want to take the strategy course and think it'll be really useful to supporting the team Despite some areas noted above, Alex is generally good fun to work for.

Which 3 areas need the most improvement, and why? (Provide examples if possible)

Your view	Time management - I need to realistic about how long things take and then manage the time (and reassess if tasks are taking longer than expected). I'd also like to build my leadership skills - perhaps taking the strategy course.
Direct manager	Be sure to seek feedback from others — particularly your direct reports — early and often!
Peers	Focus on improving the communications - they're sometimes great but when they are unclear they can lead to time wasted Would be good to see you seize chances to develop your team more ... I think they could really thrive under you with the right encouragement.
Direct reports	We should try to work more collaboratively towards setting the teams direction and working towards it. It'd be great to invite more input from us. We had the problem earlier in the year that was sorted out, and looks like you've learnt from it, but continue to make sure tasks are broken down the team understand the direction you want us to take!

Do you have any other comments?

Your view

Big thanks for all your support this year so far, I'm very keen to take some more feedback on board and get toward making real progress the benefit of me and the team

Direct manager

Good job this year!

Peers

I definitely know your potential is massive... so just keep moving forward :)

Direct reports

I'm interested to get some of the things I've mentioned addressed so we can operate in a more unified way going forward, because everyone can see you have great potential in charge of this team!

Your personal development plan

This personal development plan is for you to fill in, either on your own or with your line manager. It is recommended that you focus on 3-5 areas to improve:

- You can use the summary of results to identify the areas where improvement is most needed
- The detailed results in the appendix provide more detail where necessary
- You should aim to end up with a clear list of actions that you will take to improve your performance

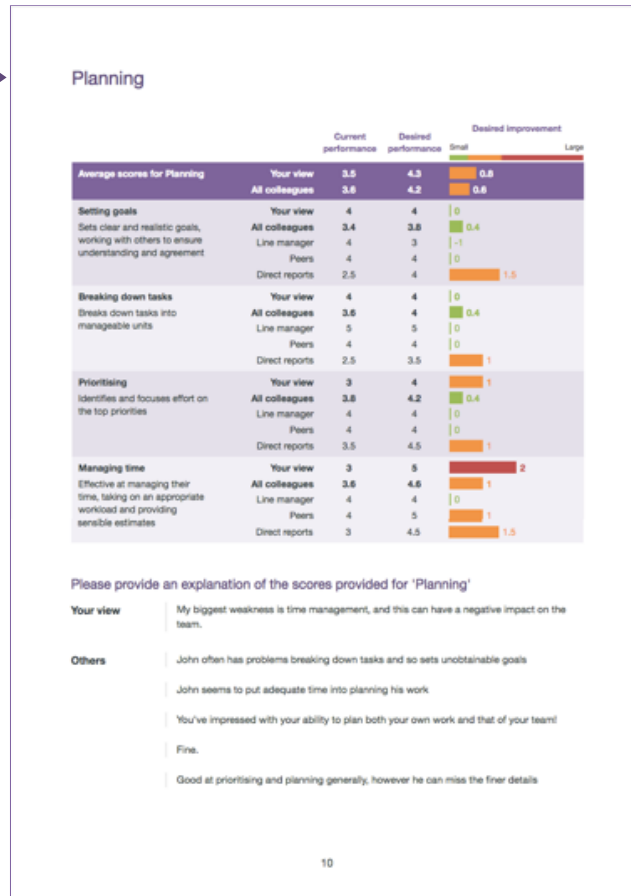

Area to improve	Current performance	Target performance	Action(s) to take	How and when I will measure success
e.g. Improve my written communications to my direct reports (as unclear emails etc. are costing the whole team time!)	e.g. Inconsistent – sometimes my emails are rushed and unclear.	e.g. Consistently clear, concise emails (and other documents)	e.g. I will focus on reviewing my emails before sending, and I'll also take the document writing course our company offers	e.g. In one month: Check that my direct reports are happier with my emails! Next year: Ensure that it is not highlighted as an area improvement in next year's 360!

Area to improve	Current performance	Target performance	Action(s) to take	How and when I will measure success

Appendix: Detailed results

The feedback is grouped into 8 sections

At the top of each section, you'll see the scores provided

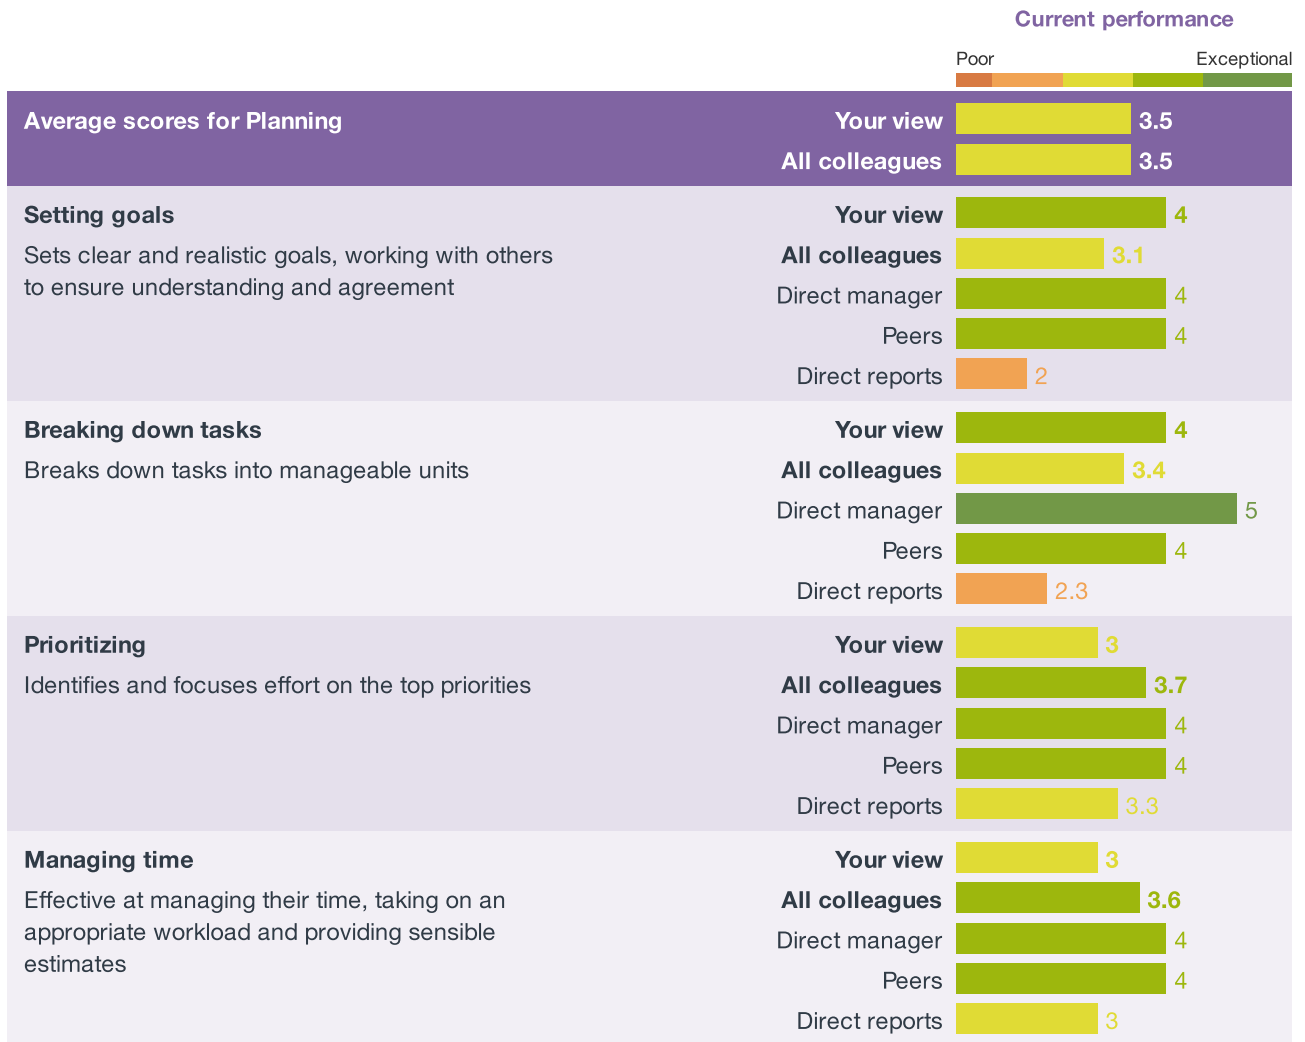

If the section included text-based questions, the answers to those questions are shown below.

What do the scores mean?

For each area, each person gave you a score out of 5 for your current performance. The meaning of each score is shown in the scale below:

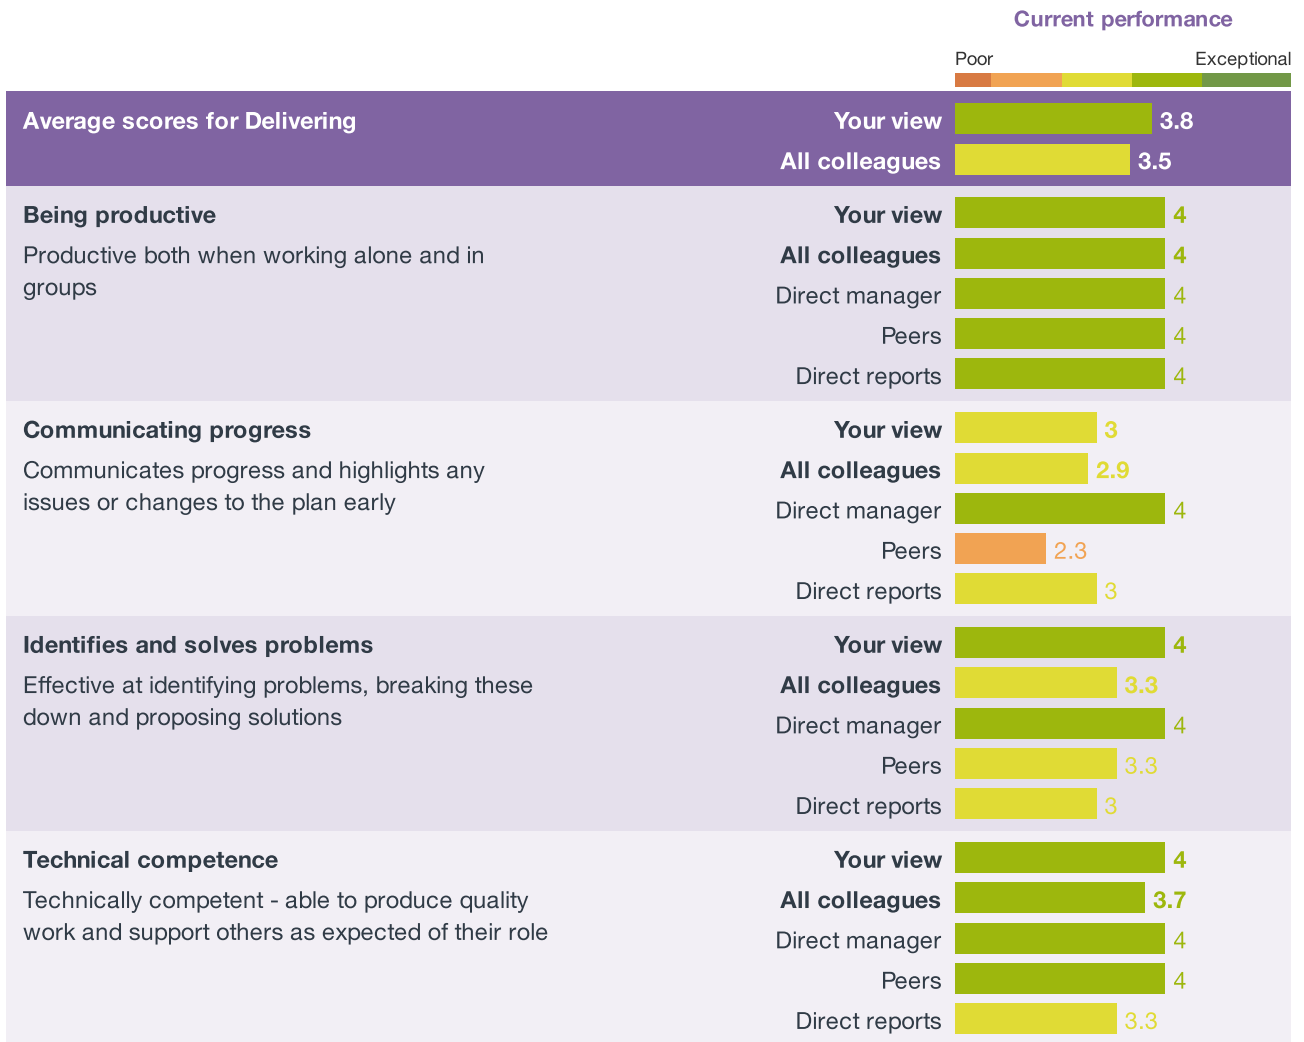

Planning

Please provide an explanation of the scores provided for 'Planning'

- Your view | My biggest weakness is time management, and this can have a negative impact on the team.
- Direct manager | You've impressed with your ability to plan both your own work and that of your team!
- Peers | Alex seems to put adequate time into planning his work
| I think you're a strong planner and it sets a brilliant example for other team leaders
- Direct reports | Alex often has problems breaking down tasks and so sets unobtainable goals
| Good at prioritizing and planning generally, however he can miss the finer details

Delivering

Please provide an explanation of the scores provided for 'Delivering'

- Your view

Generally OK I think, but I could improve how I communicate progress to the team (- this was raised an issue and discussed with the team, I'm working to improve it)
- Direct manager

All work packages have been delivered on time.
- Peers

Alex's productivity is good, but weakened by inconsistant communications (e.g. unclear emails and presentations)
- Direct reports

Alex is productive - though sometimes doesn't understand the technical aspects of my work

Really productive and always ensures that our team has good visibility of the wider team

Analysis and decision making

Please provide an explanation of the scores provided for 'Analysis and decision making'

- Your view | I think I'm strong here overall. (Innovating is less important to my role)
- Direct manager | Strong on all accounts.
- Peers | Alex displays good analytical thinking.
- Direct reports | We've had some challenges this year which I feel Alex was late to identify and address.
 For example, identifying that we weren't going to hit our January release date and identifying why. If we'd delved into this earlier, we could have released on time.
 Generally a strong area

Communication

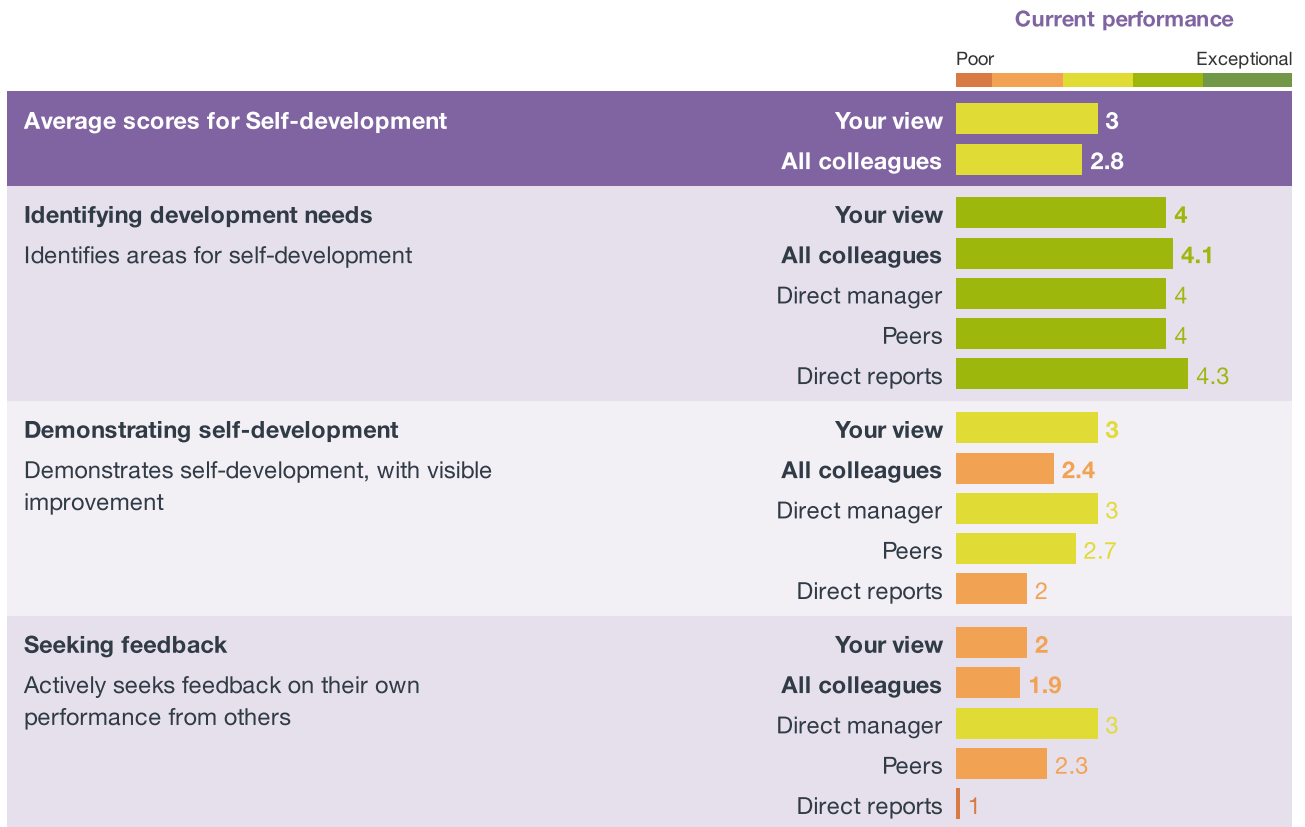

Please provide an explanation of the scores provided for 'Communication'

- Your view | Generally a strong area for me, I try hard to be focused on the point and not "bury the lede"
- Direct manager | You communicate clearly with upper management. However, you sometimes need to work on your attentiveness and understanding during weekly meetings
- Peers | I mention the unclear emails/presentations above. Alex also needs to work on absorbing information as well as providing it

| Very good — you're to the point and it's super efficient!
- Direct reports | Alex sometimes fails to listen when being alerted of potential issues and it can cost our team a lot of time.

Self-development

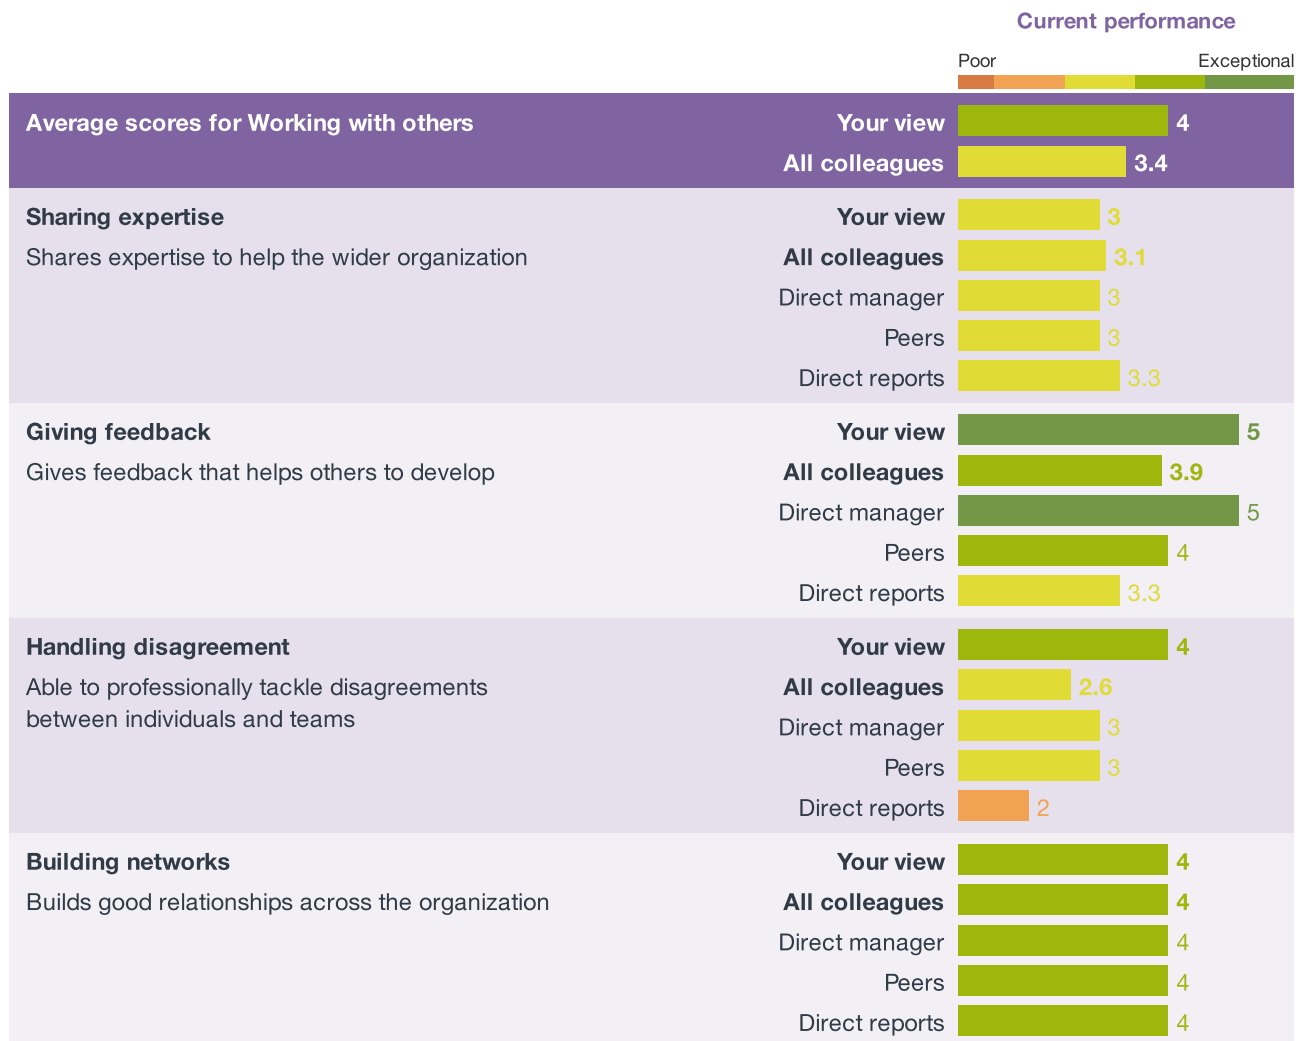

Please provide an explanation of the scores provided for 'Self-development'

- Your view | I am always looking to develop, but could do more to seek feedback for others
- Direct manager | You are constantly seeking to form new bonds and learn from others. However, remember to learn from your own experiences by seeking feedback
- Peers | Alex is actively seeking to develop through networking, however, he needs to remember that he should also learn from his own experiences
- Direct reports | Alex is always seeking to develop, but he needs to learn from the feedback given by the team

| Alex needs to listen to his team and adapt his planning style

Working with others

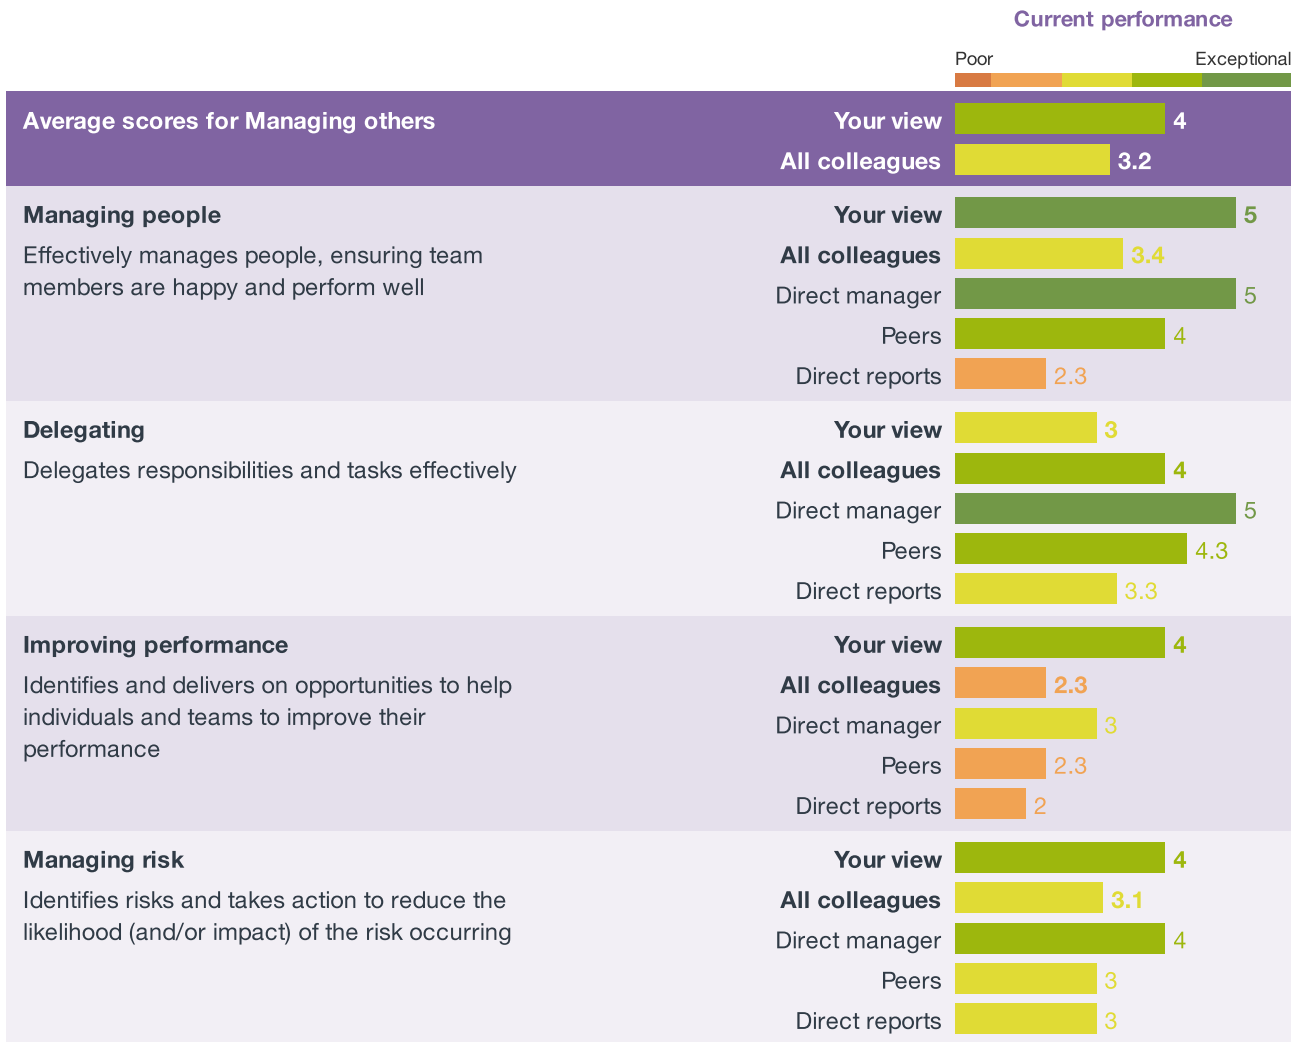

Please provide an explanation of the scores provided for 'Working with others'

- Your view | I have had success coaching my team and enjoy building new networks
- Direct manager | You've proven to be a good coach. We noted that you did have an issue earlier in the year with a member of the team, but I feel assured that has been resolved
- Peers | Provided excellent coaching on project management to my team earlier in the year.
- Direct reports | Alex is generally good here, but had problems earlier on this year managing disagreements in the team. The root of this was a task which should have been broken down further before assigning

Alex is a good coach and great at networking and finding help from other teams.

However he often mishandles disagreements within his own team.

Managing others

Please provide an explanation of the scores provided for 'Managing others'

- Your view | I have not had much chance to drive any change given my current tasks, but we're about to kick off some new initiatives...
- Direct manager | We reviewed some key changes you want to drive forward in your team next year - looking forward to seeing the impact of these
- Peers | Alex has had few opportunities to drive change but seems to be capable
- Direct reports | See above - there are some areas we need to review to improve our performance

Leadership

Please provide an explanation of the scores provided for 'Leadership'

- Your view | I enjoy managing others and look forward to being able implement my own strategies in the future
- Direct manager | Alex has shown strong leadership even in the face of problems in his own team
- Peers | Alex appears to be a good manager and can delegate tasks
| You show excellent leadership. From what I see your team runs like clockwork!
- Direct reports | Alex is undoubtedly a good leader but he needs to listen to be a better manager
| Alex has proven that he can drive the team, he now needs to adapt to better handle short term strategies
